
C. CLIFFORD ROLLINS

Shareholder | Columbia Office

803.576.3712

Practice Areas

Construction Law

Employment Law

Education

University of South Carolina (B.S., 1986)

University of South Carolina School of Law (J.D., 1999)

Order of the Wig and Robe

Bar Admission

1999, South Carolina

2003, U.S. District Court, District of South Carolina

C. Cliff Rollins is a Richardson Plowden shareholder in the Columbia office. His experience has given him an opportunity to represent clients in a variety of matters, including civil, criminal, and administrative matters. His practice focuses on employment law, crop insurance disputes, and defense of law enforcement in Section 1983 civil rights infringement suits.

Mr. Rollins's experience includes:

- Previously a solo practitioner in his home town of Saluda, South Carolina
- Served as a specialist D.U.I. prosecutor under a federal grant program

- Served with the S.C. Department of Public Safety as deputy general counsel and interim general counsel
- Previously worked as a construction worker, an Army officer, and a police officer.